

PRIMARY CONCERN Solution

Solvers first needed to determine the color that would complete the solution to each of the puzzle's clues. Once the correct colors were determined, each square of the number grid should have been associated with the appropriate color. If the answer to a clue was a secondary color, then the two appropriate primary colors should have been identified (e.g. "green" = "blue" + "yellow"). "Brown" is comprised of blue, red, and yellow; "White" would represent a blank square. Thus, each square in the grid would be identified by its primary color(s) or left blank.

Solutions to the puzzle's clues are provided here.

The grid should then be partitioned into blue, red, and yellow squares (Varsity solvers needed to envision this, while intramural solvers were provided three separate grids corresponding to blue, red, and yellow, respectively). See below for the intramural solution.

The shaded squares associated with blue, red, and yellow, in that order, spelled out the solution: "ADJUNCT JOB"
