

MISMANAGE!

Frankly, this whole process has been a management fiasco. Communication completely failed between Phlogiston and Azote. (In two cases they ended up writing pairs of puzzles that overlapped way too much! You can just solve each pair as one big puzzle to get two answers!) Each team had grand ideas about props and costumes to use but were so busy arguing (you should see the Slack) that they went way over-budget and ran out of time to pull everything together. We didn't realize until too late, and now these puzzles are a shadow of what they could have been. We hate to ask, but we're hoping that you can help us get BAPHL back on track.

You can get Ether's meta puzzle when you have three answers on this answer sheet.
